

Less than two weeks left!

Wednesday 24th and Thursday 25th of March,
starting from 3 PM (CET)

Three interactive panel discussions, over two days,
recorded in an engaging television format and live streamed
in a content-rich, innovative digital framework.

As the world witnesses a fast-paced energy transition from fossils to renewables, the international community faces new political, economic and security challenges.

Gathering specialists from international organisations and major companies in the sector,
Energy Strategies will investigate the multiple transformations unfolding in the energy market and the energy security field, with a particular focus on the Mediterranean.

What are the technological issues of a production diversification
and the conditions for electrical connections in Northern Africa?

What kinds of new threats come with renewable power plants and smart grids and how to boost cooperative security in the area?

How to achieve a more connected, integrated energy market
in the Mediterranean and ensure North-South connections?

All information on the working days
is available in the draft programme enclosed.
